

SEVERE WEATHER ALERT!!!

Letter from the Mayor's Office:

Attention Encinal Community Members:

An arctic cold front early next week will bring in the coldest weather we've seen this year. Temperatures will drop early Sunday or Sunday night and remain very cold through the first half of the week. Temperatures below freezing are expected at night with very cold wind chill Monday - Tuesday.

Encinal, TX will be experiencing inclement weather over the next several days and extra caution is being recommended for all residents. In addition to high winds today and tomorrow, Thursday, January 11 and Friday, January 12, cold weather is being forecast for the next several days.

Residents are urged to plan accordingly!!

- Thursday and Friday □ Windy (Gusts 55-65mph) □ Under fire watch
- Very cold Monday and Tuesday. Will start to warm up on Wednesday. No precipitation is expected.
- The city will serve as a shelter if needed and will be open starting Monday, January 15, 2024 @ 8am. The city will have limited supply of blankets and cases of water if you are in need. (one per household and must be picked up)

5 P's OF COLD WEATHER PREPAREDNESS

Protect People

Dress in warm layers and wear a hat and gloves.

Check on your elderly neighbors and relatives.

Practice Fire Safety

Bring outdoor pets inside or provide a warm shelter for them.

Protect Pipes

Use Safe heating sources indoors. Do not use fuel-burning devices such as grills; they release deadly carbon monoxide.

Cover pipes and allow outdoor faucets to slowly drip to prevent them from freezing and breaking.

Protect Plants

Cover cold sensitive plants to protect them from dangerous temperatures.
